Inetum's Cleva Insurance Solution becomes the technological base for managing Relyens Group's social-insurance business

Inetum, the European leader in digital services and solutions, has been chosen by Relyens Group, a leading player in insurance and risk management for the Healthcare sector and local governments in Europe. The rollout of Inetum's Cleva solution in the Relyens information system will allow the latter to push its development in complementary social insurance.

As a leading player in France in statutory insurance for local-government employees (Sofaxis) and hospital staff (Sham), Relyens Group is stepping up the development of its provident fund business (supplementary provident fund and private provident fund). The redesign of its management platform will enable it to improve its operational efficiency for the direct benefit of its clients (local authorities, hospitals, clinics, etc.) while easily integrating with the various components of the group's current information system.

As part of this strategic project, the multi-specialist player chose Inetum's insurance software for its open ecosystem and the highly configurable nature of its platform for managing statutory and provident insurance policies. Cleva Insurance Solution will provide the technological base for the management of Relyens Group's social insurance and risk management offer.

"We chose Cleva Insurance Solution because it fully meets our requirements: managing our major statutory-insurance business as well as complementary statutory and private provident insurance in a single tool that natively has the various integration modes. The first go-live in 2021 confirmed our choice of Inetum as a trusted partner in such a strategic project," says Jean Touati, CIO of the Relyens Group.

"We are delighted with this opportunity to support the Relyens Group. The choice of Cleva Insurance Solution by this multi-specialist European player confirms the relevance of our R&D investments. Cleva Insurance Solution is a comprehensive and proven software solution that is particularly well adapted to the needs of insurance companies. Beyond the benefits of our solution, the commitment of the teams and mutual trust are essential parameters for the success of a strategic project of this kind," according to Rodolphe Peim, General Manager, Software Assurance & Finance at Inetum Software.
